ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An information hiding method with reduced fuzziness, which employs interleaving encoding, convolutional encoding and contrasts among neighboring pixels. Once the information is hidden, it can still be extracted without the original image from the generated image after a certain extent of fuzziness damage.